

GGEA celebrates 'Red Day & Christmas'

Central Chronicle News

Raipur, Jan 02: Red has always been the colour for celebration, valor and festivities in the Indian subcontinent. So when it came to celebrate Christmas, no other colour could have portrayed the Christmas spirit as well as the colour "Red". On 29-December-2018, the students of classes PP-11 to V of Gyan Ganga Educational Academy celebrated the festival of Christmas.

The children as well as the teachers were all dressed in red coloured dresses that added flair to the joyous celebration. Some of the children were also dressed as Santa Claus, without whom any Christmas would be incomplete, especially for the children, that showed how important the folklores and fairytales are for children.

One of the very important ceremonious aspects of Christmas is to exchange gifts with the loved ones. The students too prepared gifts for each other and exchanged them during the celebration. The love for their closest friends and joy of giving was evident in their eyes while they happily hopped around to exchange their gifts.

After the gifts were exchanged, the children gathered in the beautiful garden adorned by the blooming seasonal flowers, under the warmth of the winter sun and listened to the age-old and yet inspiring tale of 'Birth of Jesus Christ'.

They also heard many Christmas songs and choirs and sang along with them. Not much later they also got up to tap their feet to the upbeat tunes and danced to their hearts' content with their friends in tow.

Later they went on with their martial arts class and thus enjoyed the day till the end. Afterwards, they were all escorted to their buses by their respective class teachers.
