

IIM Raipur pledges for a new India by 2022

Raipur, Aug 09:

The morning of 9th August 2017, marked the beginning of grand celebrations of the seventy fifth anniversary of the Quit India Movement. On the occasion, the IIM Raipur fraternity took oath and pledged its heart and soul for the betterment of India. On Wednesday afternoon, the Director, faculty members, administrative staff and students of IIM Raipur gathered in a hall in their premises to pledge their allegiance to the Sankalp se Siddhi mission.

Dr. Bharat Bhasker, Director of IIM Raipur, made the students acknowledge their responsibility towards the nation. After which, he recited the pledge with the students and colleagues of IIM Raipur.

'Sankalp Se Siddhi' campaign has been launched all across the country from August 9 to 30 to mark the 75th anniversary of Quit India movement. The idea behind the campaign is to sensitize the youngsters about the sacrifices of the martyrs and freedom fighters. Minister, Shri Narendra Modi, on Wednesday, delivered an address in the Lok Sabha in which he said, "The recollection of movements such as the Quit India Movement, is a source of inspiration, and the current generation has a responsibility of passing on the legacy of such movements".

The pledge identifies corruption, poverty, illiteracy and malnutrition as the major challenges that are pulling back the Indian growth story.

Once the entire country shared the common resolve, during the Quit India movement, independence came soon enough in about five years. In 1942, conditions internationally became favourable for India to get independence. Today again, the global conditions are favourable for India. Today, India stands a chance to enter the league of developed nations. But for this dream to realize, a positive transformation and a common resolve is needed.
