Prof. Pradip Rathi Panda Assistant Professor

Abstract: Driven by FOMO and guided by finfluencers, many young investors are gambling with risky trades and costly loans spiralling into a dangerous cycle of debt and financial instability. The dream of becoming rich overnight is pushing a growing number of young Indians down a dangerous path gambling on risky trades, taking high-interest loans, and ending up deep in debt. There's an urgent need to tighten NBFC regulations, particularly around unsecured lending. Loan approvals must be linked to risk profiles and end-use cases. A better understanding of where these loans are being deployed especially if funnelled into trading can guide effective policy responses.
